Local Barber Found Dead in Bed Tuesday

William Henry Ankcorn, better known to his friends as "Bill the Barber", was found dead in his room in a local hotel on Tuesday of this week, death evidently having occurred some time Monday from a heart attack.

Anchorn came to Chester about a year ago from Shelby to work in the Albright barber shop, and had been employed continuously in that position since. He was a native of Canada, but had worked at his trade as a barber in Shelby, Conrad and other Montana towns for many years before coming to Chester. He had been in poor health for some time and was suffering from high blood pressure and other ailments.

William Henry Anchorn was 58 years of age at the time of his death, and had a long and honorable military record, having served with the Canadian forces during World War I. He had served in both England and France with the 160th Battalion, and was honorably discharged on March 15th, 1919. He is survived by five brothers and three sisters, all of whom live in the eastern United States and Canada. He had no known relatives in Montana. A brother in Detroit and a sister in Chicago were located, but none of the relatives were able to come to Montana for the funeral services.

Funeral services will be held on Friday afternoon of this week from the Holland & Bonine funeral parlors in Havre, and burial will be in the Havre cemetery. It is expected that military funeral services will be held, probably under the auspices of the Havre American Legion or Veterans of Foreign Wars.
Tragic Accident Cause Of Small Boy's Death

Ernest Roy Brown, little five year old colored boy, whose parents have been working at the Red Morrison ranch in the Whitlash community for the past year and a half, died at the Chester hospital on Tuesday afternoon of this week from severe burns sustained at the Morrison ranch on Monday afternoon when his clothing caught on fire while he was playing out in the yard.

Just how the tragic accident occurred is not known. The boy had been playing outside with a younger brother, while the mother was inside the house. The younger brother rushed into the house and told his mother that his brother's clothing was on fire. The mother rushed to the child, but before she could reach him his clothes were all nearly burned, and the little body was badly seared. The child was rushed to the hospital in Chester, but the best of care and almost immediate medical care failed to save his life. He regained consciousness only for a brief period after reaching the hospital, but was unable to give any information as to how the accident occurred. It is thought that he must have gotten hold of some matches, which in some way, became ignited and caught fire to his clothing.

The Browns came to this country from Linsdale, Texas, last year, and have been working at the Morrison ranch since. Mr. Morrison had known them from Texas, and brought them here to work on the ranch. They are steady, industrious people and have the sincere sympathy of their neighbors and acquaintances in their tragic grief. Ernest was the oldest of three boys in the family.

Funeral services will be held in Shelby, Friday.
JAMES E. CADY

Answers Final Call

James Elliott Cady, honored and respected citizen of the Joplin and Chester communities for thirty-five years, died at his home in Chester Tuesday afternoon, March 27th, following a lingering illness.

Deceased was a typical Montana pioneer, coming to this state from Dakota with the first contingent of homesteaders in 1910. He took up land north of Joplin, and from that time until his health became impaired a few years ago, conducted farming operations, while at the same time he carried on other activities more or less as a side issue. He was a civil engineer of more than average ability, and in his earlier days worked at that profession in Iowa, Colorado, Neb., and Illinois. He was an experienced well driller, and was engaged in oil drilling in the early days of that industry in the state, having worked in the Cat Creek field, in Canada, and in other fields in Montana. He also drilled hundreds of water wells for homesteaders and farmers throughout the Hill district, and was credited with drilling more than 30,000 feet of wells during his lifetime. He was also a grain buyer in the earlier days, and at one time managed an elevator in Joplin.

Failing health compelled Mr. Cady to curtail his operations several years ago, and he moved to Chester, where he was employed by the county for several years as manager of the county yards. For the past two or three years he had been unable to do any active work, and spent his winters mostly at Hot Springs, west of the mountains, but invariably came back to Liberty county for the summers. His condition gradually grew worse, and for weeks he had been confined to his bed most of the time, the end coming as relief to a long period of suffering.

Jim Cady, as he was familiarly known to his many friends, was an upstanding, forthright man in every sense of the word. Firm in his convictions, he was also tolerant of views and opinions of others. He was an honored and devoted member of the Masonic fraternity, and for years his lectures, council and advice were sought and appreciated by his brother Masons. He was a strong organization man, believing in and supporting any organization that was for the uplift of humanity. He was never affiliated with any church organization, his Masonry and his philosophical views of life constituting his religion.

James E. Cady was born in Iroquois county, Illinois, June 17, 1868, being 76 years, nine months and ten days of age at the time of his passing. From Illinois he moved to Nebraska, and later to Iowa, where he was married to Miss Agnes Whelchel on January 22, 1902. Soon after their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Cady moved to New Rockford, N. D., and then came to Montana in 1910.

Mr. Cady is survived by his wife and one son, Elwin, who now resides on the original Cady home place northwest of Joplin.

John Fenzl Killed

John Fenzl, old time resident of the Chester community, died in San Francisco, Cal., on July 25th from injuries received in an automobile accident, according to information received here the first of the week.

Fenzl left Chester about a year ago by car, going first to Reno, Nevada, where he visited for a time with two daughters and later visited with a son in the service at a camp in California, and then went to San Francisco, where he took employment in a shipbuilding plant. He remained in the California city until his death.

According to more or less meagre information received here, the accident occurred in the city of San Francisco, when Fenzl's car, being driven by a woman at the time, collided with another car at an intersection. There were five people in the Fenzl car at the time of the accident, and the woman driver is being held on a manslaughter charge by California authorities, it is reported. The other four passengers in the car were not fatally injured, but Fenzl died as a result of his injuries two days after the accident. The body was taken to the old home in Oshkosh, Wis., for burial.

Fenzl came to this locality in 1910, it is recalled by oldtimers, and homesteaded land seven miles north and one mile east of Chester. He made his home on this farm until two or three years ago, when he moved into Chester. At one time he worked for the railroad during the early days, and in later years did farm and other kinds of work. He was attracted to the west coast by the big wages being paid in war production plants.

The following item concerning the accident and burial services is taken from the Oshkosh, Wis. Daily Northwestern on August 4th:

"Commitment rites for John Fenzl, former Oshkosh resident, who died July 25 of injuries received in an auto accident in San Francisco, where he was employed by a shipbuilding concern, were held this afternoon in private at Riverside cemetery. Funeral services were held on the west coast earlier and the body arrived here this morning.

Mr. Fenzl, a resident of Chester, Mont., was injured July 23. He was born March 19, 1887, in Oshkosh, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Fenzl.

Survivors are four daughters, Rose, Portland, Ore., Margaret, Tracyton, Wash., and Helen and Goldie of Reno, Nev., one son, John Jr., stationed at Camp Corcoran, Calif., three brothers, Joseph, Max and Frank, all of Oshkosh; and two sisters, Mrs. William Haidlinger and Mrs. Rose Dichtl both of this city.

Shelby Man Dies
In Store in Chester

William F. Kalebe, 65, a resident of Shelby for a number of years, died suddenly in the Shamey Grocery store in Chester Wednesday morning, from a heart attack.

The stricken man had come to Chester with the wholesale grocery wagon belonging to the Lawrence Casey company of Great Falls and Shelby. Kalebe was helping the driver, Ronald Bruce, of Conrad, and a shipment of supplies had been unloaded at the Chester Trading company before driving to the Shamey store. Kalebe rode on the lowered platform of the truck from the Chester Trading company to the Shamey store, and when the truck backed up in front of the latter store, he stepped off and went inside, when he reached the rear of the store he crumpled down, and apparently died immediately.

The body was removed to the sheriff's office, and Sheriff Keith notified Coroner W. H. Burns, of Shelby, who came over at once and took the body back to Shelby.

The Toole county coroner held a preliminary hearing in the sheriff's office about noon, questioning several eye witnesses.

Kalebe was a veteran of the Spanish-American war, and had a membership card in the U. S. Veterans of Spanish-American war. He had a considerable amount of money on his person, and a bank book showing a balance of between five and six hundred dollars in a Shelby bank. He had been acting as a watchman at the warehouse of the grocery company in Shelby, and up until the time he was stricken was apparently in normal health. He lived alone in Shelby, and nothing was known of his family or relatives. His fishing license showed his age as 65, but it is believed he was considerably older than the age indicated.

Lyle Rudolph Accidently
Killed at Prescott Ranch

Lyle Rudolph, 31, life long resident of Liberty county, and a valued employee at the Prescott ranch, was killed at the ranch late Tuesday afternoon of this week, when a load of hay overturned, pinning the unfortunate victim underneath, and probably causing death instantly.

Just how or exactly when the accident occurred is not known, and probably never will be. Harold Prescott, manager of the ranch, had come into town earlier in the day, and left instructions for Rudolph to haul a load of hay to one of the sheep camps. There was a bad hill on the route, and Prescott warned Rudolph to be particularly careful at that particular place, and if it looked dangerous to go around it. On returning to the upper ranch home about dark, Prescott found that Rudolph had not returned, and at once set out in search of him. The first place he went was to the hill he had considered dangerous and there found the hay rack, loaded, right side up, about thirty feet from the road. The wagon gears and team were missing, indicating that the load had overturned. He then found a gate in the field that had been completely demolished, and knew then that Rudolph had either gone after the horses, or was under the load. He then went to the Knute Osvold home, near by, and summoned help, and an investigation was made. Rudolph's body was found under the rack, pinned down by the two heavy center beams, it was necessary to construct a temporary tripod and use a pulley to raise the rack and the body removed. Death had apparently occurred some time previously, and was undoubtedly instantaneous.

Sheriff Dodds Keith was notified, and he and County Attorney Peter M. Rigg and Clarence Langley went out to the ranch at once, and after ascertaining the facts surrounding the accident, brought the body into town, and it was later taken to Havre.

Final arrangements for funeral services had not yet been completed Thursday morning, pending word from some of the relatives who live at a distance. It is probable the funeral will be held Saturday afternoon from the Methodist church in Chester, with Rev. Gilbertson, of the Lutheran church, in charge of the service.

Mrs. Staudacher had been suffering from a cancerous affliction for many months, and while her death was not unexpected, the passing was a grievous shock to her family, relatives and a host of friends.

She had lived in the Lothair community and in Chester most of her adult life. She came to the Lothair community with her family in 1910, and lived on the place they homesteaded just south of the town site until her marriage in 1927 to Mr. Staudacher. Previous to her marriage, she graduated from Havre High School, and later worked in the court house in that city for several years, taught school, and also worked for a time in a clerical position in Spokane. She then returned to Chester, where she was a valued employee in different offices in the court house until the time of her marriage.

Ethel May Griener was born October 1st, 1894, at Park River, Walsh County, North Dakota. She was married to John M. Staudacher on November 1st, 1927, and to this union three children were born, Raymond J., 17, Mary Evelyn, 15, and Margaret Ann, who preceded her mother in death in January, 1940.

Conrad Publisher Dies

Robert Bruce Thompson, founder and publisher of the Pondera County News at Conrad, died at seven o'clock last night in the Conrad hospital, following an illness of several weeks.

Thompson spent most of his adult life in Montana, first working at his trade as a printer, and in later years publishing and editing his own paper. In the early days he worked for Harry Brooks on the old Chinook Opinion, and when the oil boom struck in Toole county he established a paper at Kevin, which he published for several years. In 1928 he moved his plant from Kevin to Conrad, and established the Pondera County News, which he published with credit to himself and the newspaper fraternity until his death.

Bruce Thompson was a typical pioneer newspaper man of Montana, and for many years was a warm friend of the publisher of the Times, as he was to practically every other newspaper man in the state. His passing will be sincerely mourned not only by his immediate family, but by his wide circle of friends throughout the state, especially in northern Montana.

Funeral services will be held at two o'clock on Saturday afternoon of this week in Conrad, and burial will be in the Conrad cemetery.
Funeral services were held on Wednesday of this week for John E. (Dutch Ed) Trommer, old-time settler of this section of the country. Trommer passed away Friday evening after only a very short illness, although his health has been failing for a number of years.

He was born in Colberg, Germany in April of 1859 and came to the United States as a young man. Shortly after the Northern Pacific started their railway westward. He had been in Montana for 65 years. Among the first jobs he held after leaving the employ of the Northern Pacific was freight-boss on a freight string from Fort Benton to Fort Browning. Later he married a woman that had come to Montana to teach school. She was employed at the schools in Browning. After their marriage they came to the Lothair district and he settled there to make his home and operate a ranch. At the time the land was opened to home-steadings he was operating a successful horse ranch north of Lothair. By squatter rights he obtained a homestead and has remained on it the rest of his life.

The most of his family has been gone from this country for considerable time. It is known that he had five children, 2 boys and 3 girls. One of the boys has been in Panama for a number of years. The whereabouts of the rest is not certain.

Interment was made in the local cemetery following services in the local Methodist Church.
